Data Conversion
Data Migration
Data Integration

Data Conversion and data retrieval is an indispensable part of every today's IT business application. Beyond that the continuously increasing requirements for integration jobs are requested, respectively the demand is increasing in terms of systems to be integrated and in terms of amount of data.

Due to the worldwide globalization and therefore the heterogeneous data within the most different companies and their multiple departments every new developed software systems, every new IT business strategy will be severely proved.

In this place, solutions are needed which have the ability to convert data between different systems automatically on the one hand, or to deliver a homogeneous view onto just these data on the second hand.

At the same time such solutions should be perfectly adequate for the modern standards of the today's and future IT architectures e.g. SOA, Web Services or business processes.

The arlanis Software AG meets the challenge - in the past, in present and in future.

Profound knowledge of the requirements

Through many years of experience in projects within the integration range arlanis Software AG owns a deep knowledge of the ETL processes as well as of the management and integration of legacy data. A measurable ROI is guaranteed by the engineering and following deployment of the State-of-the-Art solutions.

Since more than 5 years arlanis Software AG is a recommended specialist for targeted CRM consulting, implementation, engineering and management of national as well as international Salesforce.com projects. Overleaf you'll find some of our reference customers.
